

I am tired of cell phone providers locking me into long-term contracts with costly early termination fees. I urge you to give consumers a more powerful marketplace and limit these exorbitant early termination fees -- but not at the expense of my legal right to sue wireless companies for potentially illegal behavior.

Competition is the basis of Capitalizm and the contract removes the consumer from the only option available when dealing with a company that is unsatisfactory. Please eleminate early termination fees. I believe the cell phone providers have had secret meetings and have all agreed on this unfair activity. I think it is illegal.
