Dear FCC:

I have three accounts between XM and Sirius. I would like to only have one bill. I pay to have these products, leave it up to the consumer's to make the decision on the merger. If we don't agree with the product that they put out, then we can cancel the subscription. That will put the combined companies out of business, but let the public decide not five politicians.

You can even request the combined companies to have a public survey to take a poll and see what the public says.

Then make you decision accordingly.

Please do the right thing.

Sincerely,

Aaron Bowman
