

owned (measured either by equity or voting interests) by citizens of, or entities with principal places of business in, the United States or another WTO-member country. As a result, the presumption that foreign ownership in excess of the Section 310(b)(4) benchmark serves the public interest applies here. Thus, the proposed foreign ownership of the Stratos Licensees is fully consistent with Commission precedent and should be found to be in the public interest.

Principal Place Of Business Showing (Post-Transaction)

Details on Ownership of Shares of Inmarsat plc

As noted above, Inmarsat plc is a public limited company listed on the London Stock Exchange (LSE: ISAT). Inmarsat plc has one class of voting shares – ordinary shares of €0.0005 each with one vote per share, 458,400,172 of which are issued and outstanding. There are currently over 2,200 registered shareholders of Inmarsat plc.

At least approximately 89 percent of the Inmarsat plc shares is beneficially owned, and approximately 88 percent of the voting power in Inmarsat plc is controlled, by U.S. or other WTO-based companies, or by senior Inmarsat plc management who are citizens of the United States or other WTO-member countries. To Inmarsat plc's knowledge, approximately an additional 1.32 percent of its shares is owned and voted by entities from non-WTO-member countries. In the aggregate, holdings where equity and voting interests are known comprise approximately 90 percent (equity) and 89 percent (voting) of the interests in Inmarsat plc.

Inmarsat plc bases its shareholder analysis on data collected by JPMorganCazenove Limited ("Cazenove") at Inmarsat plc's request, which Inmarsat plc requests in the ordinary course of business, and in accordance with the UK Companies Act (which governs Inmarsat plc). This shareholder analysis is based on Cazenove's most recent survey conducted in May 2008.¹⁰

Cazenove reviews raw shareholder data maintained by the Inmarsat plc share registrars and classifies this data by known shareholding names. Cazenove also investigates shareholdings to identify, where possible, the underlying beneficial ownership. In accordance with the UK Companies Act, this investigation typically involves writing to the named shareholder, requesting that it provide the relevant information relating to the underlying ownership. Cazenove also takes steps to determine the country of "domicile"¹¹ for Inmarsat plc's shareholders and any third parties that manage those shareholdings. As with the Commission's "principal place of business" test, Cazenove conducts research to look beyond the street address associated with the shares. Among other things, Cazenove looks to available information such as: investment purpose, country of organization, location of headquarters, and country from which the funds being managed were contributed.

Cazenove does not analyze holdings of private individuals. However, data maintained by the share registrars indicates that a small percentage (less than 1 percent) of Inmarsat plc shares is owned by individuals, other than Inmarsat management, whose citizenship is not known. The vast majority of these individuals own less than 0.01 percent each. Certain members of Inmarsat plc's senior management (who are citizens of the United States or other WTO-member countries) own in the aggregate approximately 1.08 percent.

In many instances, Inmarsat plc shares are managed by a different entity than the beneficial owner, with the investment manager typically exercising the voting power. This shareholder analysis accounts for this distinction by attributing beneficial holdings to equity not in most cases know the principal place of business of beneficial owners who own fewer than 100,000 shares each.

ownership and management holdings to voting interests.¹² All percentages listed below are approximate, and derived as described above.

1. Aggregate percentage of total equity and voting stock held by or on behalf of individuals that are citizens of the United States.

Except as noted below with respect to Inmarsat plc management, approximately 0.01 percent of shares is owned by individuals whose citizenship has not been ascertained, but whose shares are registered in their names to United States addresses.¹³ Cazenove has not investigated whether additional shareholdings may be held by individuals through a street name.

2. The aggregate percentage of total equity and voting stock held by or on behalf of individuals that are citizens of foreign countries.

Except as noted below, approximately 0.6 percent of Inmarsat plc shares is owned by individuals whose citizenship has not been ascertained, but whose shares are registered in their names to non-U.S. addresses.¹⁴ Cazenove has not investigated whether additional shareholdings may be held by individuals through a street name.

Certain individuals in Inmarsat plc senior management (who are citizens of the United States or other WTO-member countries) hold, in the aggregate, approximately 1.08

¹² In certain cases in which the beneficial owner is known, either it is not certain whether that beneficial owner relies on a manager, or Inmarsat plc does not have complete information about the manager that might exercise voting power. In the aggregate, those circumstances exist for approximately 1 percent of Inmarsat plc's shares.

4. Aggregate percentage of total equity and voting stock held by banks, insurance companies, pension plans and foundations/endowments controlled by foreign citizens or organized in foreign countries.

Banks, insurance companies, pension plans and foundations/endowments (including holdings by analogous entities such as custodians, market makers and charities) organized in foreign countries or controlled by foreign individuals or entities hold approximately 13.89 percent of the equity and 13.49 percent of the voting interests in Inmarsat plc.¹⁶ Entities in this category have their principal place of business in one of the following countries, all of which

Thus, these shareholdings are not included in calculating known voting power.

¹⁸ As indicated in Appendix B, Harbert Fund Advisors, Inc., an Alabama corporation with its principal place of business in the United States ("Harbert"), serves as investment advisor to an entity that serves as investment manager to Harbinger Capital Partners Master Fund I, Ltd., a fund organized in the Cayman Islands ("Harbinger Master Fund") that owns approximately 19.59 percent of the outstanding shares of Inmarsat plc. Therefore, this analysis ascribes (i) to Harbert the voting power with respect to this 19.59 percent ownership interest (accounted for in category 5 of this shareholder analysis), and (ii) to Harbinger Master Fund the equity with respect to this 19.59 percent ownership interest (accounted for in category 6 of this shareholder analysis).

7. Other types of investors not covered above.

To the best of Inmarsat plc's knowledge, none of its shares is owned and voted by investors not covered above that are both organized in the United States and have their principal places of business in the United States.

These shareholders, including those discussed in the next paragraph, are either representatives of governments or privatized telecommunications companies.

Of the foregoing interests, the following is the aggregate percentage of equity and voting interests attributable to non-WTO investment: one Liberian investor (0.14 percent), one Libyan Arab Mamahiriya investor (0.03 percent), and one Russian Federation investor (1.15 percent). These are legacy shareholders from the period when Inmarsat plc was an intergovernmental organization. These shareholders then held shares in Inmarsat plc when it

²⁰ Shares of Inmarsat plc that fall into this category, where the beneficial owners' shares are managed by an entity whose principal place of business is in a different country, comprise approximately 20.58 percent of the outstanding equity interests in Inmarsat plc. In each such case, the manager's principal place of business is in the United States or another WTO-member country listed above.
