I note that the FCC has concluded that "exclusivity" clauses in contracts for the provision of video services to multiple dwelling constitutes an unfair method of competition or an unfair practice", under section 628 (b) of the communication act.

I urge that the ruling be expanded to include prohibiting exclusive marketing and bulk billing arrangements - communities and condos where residents pay for cable as part of the amenities fee. Residents can then engage the services of a cable company of their own choosing.

Sincerely,

Kenneth R. Heden
