CGB-CC-0800 – Opposition to the Petition for Exemption from Closed Captioning Requirements Filed by Classified On-The-Air Advertising & Production

Dear Ms. Dortch:

Telecommunications for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Inc. (“TDI”), National Association for the Deaf (“NAD”), Deaf and Hard of Hearing Consumer Advocacy Network (“DHHCAN”), Hearing Loss Association of America (“HLAA”), Association of Late-Deafened Adults, Inc. (“ALDA”), American Association of People with Disabilities (“AAPD”), and California Coalition of Agencies Serving the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (“CCASDHH”) (collectively, “Commenters”) submit for filing in the above-captioned proceeding their opposition to the petition for exemption from the Commission’s closed captioning requirements filed by Classifieds On-The-Air Advertising & Production for its program “At Your Request” (the “Petition”).

The following is a summary of pertinent program, financial, and other information provided in the Petition:

Petitioner claims it produces program-length commercials for clients, which are aired in their local markets. Petitioner also produces a 30-minute weekly program, which is aired locally for the Musical Arts Scholarship Program, a non-profit entity. The program features local artists performing songs requested by viewers in exchange for contributions that support scholarships for young people to receive musical instruction. Petitioner claims that each airing of the program raises a few hundred dollars and that the additional cost of closed captioning could “reduce revenues to next-to-nothing” or result in operating at a loss. In addition, the Petitioner claims that the program is “comprised principally of instrumental numbers,” and that closed captioning “could not substantially enhance the enjoyment of hearing-impaired viewers.” Petitioner further claims that all other “pertinent” information (telephone number for contributions; song title, performer, and composer identification) is conveyed by visual text.

Petitioner did not provide any information about its financial resources. Petitioner did not provide any information about the cost of closed captioning, any indication that Petitioner sought competitive pricing from multiple sources or sought to recoup the cost of closed captioning. Petitioner did not include an affidavit.

The Petition does not meet the statutory requirements necessary to support an exemption from the closed captioning rules.¹ Commenters oppose grant of the Petition because Petitioner has provided insufficient information to demonstrate and/or for the Commission to determine that it meets the undue burden standard for granting the Petition. Commenters recommend that the Petitioner be given 180 days either to comply with the closed captioning rules or to re-apply with sufficient information to allow the Commission and the public to determine whether the Petitioner's request meets the legal standard for granting a waiver.

In addition to claiming that compliance with the Commission's closed captioning requirements would impose an undue burden on it, Petitioner implies or expressly claims that its programming qualifies for exemptions under Section 79.1(d)(4) and Section 79.1(d)(8) of the Commission's Rules. For the reasons discussed below, Petitioner has failed to demonstrate that it qualifies for an exemption under these sections of the Commission's rules.

I. The Legal Standard for Granting a Petition for Exemption

Section 713 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the "Act"), requires that video programming be closed captioned, regardless of distribution technologies, to ensure that it is accessible to persons with hearing disabilities.² The Commission has the authority to grant a petition for an exemption from the closed captioning requirements upon a showing that the requirements would impose an undue burden on the video programming provider or video owner.³ Congress defined "undue burden" to mean "significant difficulty or expense."⁴

A petition seeking a waiver of the captioning rules must demonstrate that compliance would result in an undue burden within the meaning of Section 713(e) and Section 79.1(f) of the Commission's rules.⁵ Section 713 requires the Commission to consider four factors when determining whether the closed captioning requirements will impose an undue burden: (1) the nature and cost of the closed captions for the programming; (2) the impact on the operation of the provider or program owner; (3) the financial resources of the provider or program owner; and (4) the type of operations of the provider or program owner.⁶

Section 79.1(f) of the Commission's rules sets forth the Commission's procedures for seeking an exemption from the closed captioning requirements on the basis that compliance would impose an undue burden on the programmer.⁷ A petition for an exemption from the closed captioning requirements must be supported by sufficient evidence to demonstrate that compliance with the requirements would cause an undue burden.⁸ Such petition must contain a detailed, full showing, supported by affidavit, of any facts or considerations relied on by the petitioner.⁹ It must also describe any available alternatives that might constitute a reasonable substitute for the captioning requirements.¹⁰

In the 2006 Anglers Exemption Order, the Consumer & Governmental Affairs Bureau ("CGB") improperly created a new standard that ignored the "undue burden" analysis required by the Act, the Commission's rules, and Commission precedent. Instead, the CGB stated that any non-profit organization may be granted a waiver from the closed captioning rules if the organization does not receive compensation for airing its programming and if it may terminate or substantially curtail its programming or other activities important to its mission if it is required to caption its programming.¹¹ The Commission may not properly rely on the Anglers Exemption Order to determine whether Petitioner's request meets the undue burden standard. Commenters have sought review of the Anglers Exemption Order by the Commission and, accordingly, the Anglers Exemption Order is not final.¹² Moreover, the standard announced by the CGB in the Anglers Exemption Order was inappropriate because it failed to incorporate an "economically burdensome” or an “undue burden” standard as mandated by the Act and fails to require Petitioner to demonstrate the four factors listed above.

II. Petitioner Has Presented Insufficient Information to Demonstrate or Determine that Compliance with the Captioning Requirement Would Impose an Undue Burden

Petitioner requests an exemption from the closed captioning requirements, asserting that compliance would impose an undue burden on Petitioner. However, the Petition offers insufficient evidence to demonstrate or determine that compliance would impose an undue burden under the four statutory exemption factors. The Petition therefore does not meet the legal standard for granting a request for exemption of the closed captioning rules and should be denied.

Commenters respectfully submit that the Petition is not supported by sufficient evidence to demonstrate that compliance with the closed captioning requirements would impose an undue burden upon Petitioner as required by the statutory factors set forth under Section 79.1(f)(2) of the Commission’s rules.¹³

First factor: The nature and cost of the closed captions. In judging the sufficiency of information filed to support a claim that the cost of implementing closed captioning will impose an undue burden, the Commission looks to whether the petitioner:

- (1) sought competitive pricing from multiple sources;
- (2) submitted copies of the correspondence received from such captioning companies, indicating a range of quotes;
- (3) provided details regarding its financial resources; and
- (4) sought any means to recoup the cost of closed captioning, such as through grants or sponsorships.¹⁴

Moreover, the Commission has stated that petitioners must make an effort to solicit captioning assistance from the distributors of its programming.¹⁵ A petitioner must also provide the Commission the distributor's response to its solicitation.¹⁶ Failure to provide the foregoing information and to establish that the Petitioner pursued other possible means of gaining captioning hinders the Commission's assessment of the impact of the cost of captioning on Petitioner.¹⁷

Second factor: The impact on the operation of the provider or program owner. A petition must provide sufficient information to indicate that compliance with closed captioning requirements will adversely affect the Petitioner's operations.

Third factor: the financial resources of the provider or program owner. Commission Rule 79.1(f)(2) provides that a petition for exemption "must be supported by sufficient evidence to demonstrate that compliance with the requirements would cause an undue burden."¹⁸ Additionally, in determining whether the closed captioning requirements impose an undue burden, the Commission must consider the resources that the petitioner has chosen to devote to the program in the context of the overall budget and revenues of the petitioner – and not merely the cost of captioning in relation to a particular program.¹⁹

Fourth factor: The type of operation of the provider or program owner. In order for the Commission to determine whether the Petition is supported under the fourth factor, Petitioner must provide detailed information regarding its operations and explain why or how complying with the closed captioning requirements would result in significant difficulty for Petitioner because of the type of operations involved. Here, Petitioner has not provided sufficient financial information to determine whether an undue burden would result under the four factors above.

III. Petitioner does not Qualify for Self-Implementing Exemptions

Petitioner also argues that it qualifies for exemptions pursuant to Section 79.1(d)(4) and Section 79.1(d)(8) of the Commission's rules. Section 79.1(d)(4) pertains to primarily textual programming,²⁰ and Section 79.1(d)(8) pertains to locally produced programming;²¹

A. Exemption Criteria Under Section 79.1(d)(4)

Petitioner asserts that its video program is exempt from the closed captioning requirements pursuant to Section 79.1(d)(4) of the Commission's Rules, which provides an exemption for primarily textual programming.²² The Commission rejected classifying several types of programming as primarily textual because "critical portions of the information conveyed is lost if captioning is absent."²³ For example, the Commission determined that home shopping programming is not eligible for the exemption even though textual information is visually displayed about a product, quantity, price, and ordering information.

Here, Petitioner's program may include related information displayed on screen in text, such as telephone number for contributions, song title, performer, and composer identification. Providing text or visual displays of what the Petitioner believes to be core content, vital details, pertinent, important, or relevant information is not sufficient. Audio or voiceover information, sometimes characterized as "verbiage" or "banter" and often unscripted, ad lib, or improvised, provides commentary and information, which is not displayed on screen as text. Closed captions are not generally required for non-vocal musical programming. However, song lyrics are an important and integral component of vocal musical programming which can and should be closed captioned. Primarily textual programming exists only when virtually everything that is said, or sung, actually appears on screen as text. Therefore, Petitioner does not qualify for the exemption set forth in 79.1(d)(4) because the programming at issue is not primarily textual.

B. Exemption Criteria Under Section 79.1(d)(8)

Petitioner implies or expressly claims that its video program is exempt from the closed captioning requirements pursuant to Section 79.1(d)(8) of the Commission's Rules. In Section 79.1(d)(8), the Commission exempted from the captioning requirements video programming “that is locally produced by the video programming distributor, has no repeat value, is of local public interest, is not news programming, and for which the ‘electronic news room’ technique of captioning is unavailable.”²⁴ A “video programming distributor” is defined in Section 79.1(a)(2) as “any television broadcast station licensed by the Commission and any multi-channel video programming distributor as defined in Section 76.1000(e) of the rules, and any other distributor of video programming for residential reception that delivers such programming directly to the home and is subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission.”²⁵ Commenters respectfully submit that Petitioner is not a video programming distributor as defined under Section 79.1(a)(2). Thus, Petitioner does not qualify for the exemption set forth in 79.1(d)(8).

IV. Conclusion

For the reasons discussed above, Petitioner's request for exemption from the closed captioning requirements fails to demonstrate that compliance with the requirements would cause an undue burden within the meaning of Section 713 of the Act. Accordingly, it should be denied.

In addition, Commenters respectfully request that the Commission accept the attached certification that the facts and considerations in this filing are true and correct and waive the requirement to provide an affidavit for a responsive pleading.²⁶
