

I think it is a great idea to reduce the rate for a GMRS license. However, my concern is that by removing the regulatory fee the FCC may not be as willing to regulate GMRS. If this regulatory fee is dropped, will the fcc still be willing to enforce the rules of GMRS or be willing to modify them? If not regulated by the FCC, can non profit organizations be formed in local areas by GMRS licensed individuals to help enforce or change the rules? Otherwise, I'm all for lowering the fees.
