

Enough, is enough of making up the rules as you go a long. I believe this one should be addressed to the people to make the final decision. We're tired of watching government screw things up for the public over and over again or haven't you noticed in the last four years what's been going on by dumb decisions in government? I'll bet no one knows how many people this will effect or the companies that are making the products you will put out of business either. I'd say, think before you act instead of acting before you think.
