

Who Own's the Internet?

Just who does own the rights to the internet? Simple, I do. Think that's a bit big headed? Ask anyone on the net. The net belongs to each individual on it. Each of our systems contributes to it's function. Each content provider brings it to life and each content consumer gives it purpose.

We made the internet together and it is ours to decide how it will live on.

I will completely refuse to give my business to any company that thinks they can take my child away from me. Furthermore, no politician will have my support unless they are for the free and equal use of the internet.

Mothers and Fathers of the net, cast your vote AND put your money where your mouth is. Let your congress know, and drop any provider that even suggests the net needs to be controlled. I promise they will hear your voice when their bottom line takes a hit.
