

Don't lose freedom

People may look at me, and say 'she's just a kid'. They're right, I am just a kid. But even if that's true, I also know that this is wrong. If you start charging for the internet, people lose their freedom of speech. The same way we lost the right to say what we could over the radio, we may lose it now.

Just because other things think it's right to charge for things, doesn't mean it is. If you charge for this, people will lose friendships, connection with family and lovers, and their freedom of speech. This is wrong and must be fought.
