Re: *Notification of Ex Parte Presentation, Revision to Rules Authorizing the Operation of Low Power Auxiliary Stations in the 698-806 MHz Band, et al., WT Docket Nos. 08-166 & 08-167

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On March 13, 2009, Verizon Wireless, represented by Don Brittingham, Assistant Vice President, and Adam Krinsky, outside counsel, met with Renée Crittendon, Legal Advisor to Commissioner Jonathan Adelstein, and intern Jonathan Campbell, regarding the above-captioned proceeding. The parties discussed the need for a prompt and comprehensive order in this proceeding given the June 12, 2009 DTV Transition deadline, upcoming testing and planned service deployments, and the undisputed fact that commercial service subscribers and public safety – as well as wireless microphone users – will all experience harmful interference unless the FCC acts quickly to chart a path for the rapid elimination of wireless microphone operations in the 700 MHz band.

In particular, Verizon Wireless urged the Commission to: ban the domestic manufacture and sale of wireless microphone and other LPAS devices capable of operating in the 700 MHz band (with appropriate labeling requirements for any devices manufactured for export); set a firm date within the next 12 months for wireless microphone and other LPAS devices to cease operations in the 700 MHz band; provide a 60-day notification process whereby new licensees can notify wireless microphone and other LPAS device users in a particular market of the need to vacate the 700 MHz band prior to the nationwide transition date to enable testing or operations; and issue an FCC consumer advisory to explain the wireless microphone transition out of the 700 MHz band. The parties also engaged in a discussion of the potential for the Commission to expand LPAS eligibility.
