

Dear Sirs, I am a 49 year old father of 2 girls age 17 and 14. My wife and I attempted for 9 years to have children without success. When we were blessed with our children, as I look back it seems that nothing in life really mattered until they became part of our life. We live a somewhat protected life from harsh environments and are very inter active with our kids. As we look at the future, as well as the surroundings wondering how we as a nation have slipped so far from what should be embarrassing, imorale, wrong and impure and what they will be exposed to I can't help but think of Winston Churchill's words, "so goes the family, so goes the nation." I will not go into preaching here but do need to say that in my life time I have seen "Hollywood's" influence as a major factor in this. Glorifying immorality, crime, drinking and drugs and portraying this to be normal. Let me end by saying that we as a family can not eat in some establishments that would be okay for what is said and shown on the TV. We do not watch what would be an otherwise acceptable movie due to what Hollywood feels they have to put inthere to get their ratings. It's a shame once so great a nation has come to. I feel we can slow this and possibly reverse the tide in this area by putting tools in place for those who would use them. We have the ability to put these tools in place, without them we must accept what we will not change.

Thank-You.
