

When I hooked up a special new memorex dvd/video movie play. My room mate and best friend was fighting cancer in the hospital and I was able to get a couple cd's about his type of cancer & a couple of men who beat it. Even though he had a special and severe case, due to being misdiagnosed by people who pass for MD's here, for four (4) months. I have the x-rays, ct-scans, actual dvds of them, and notes as well. I had to deal with this TV Guardian, I was PISSED OFF. I am a Christian and feel we all have to learn what our limits are and not one person, no matter who that is, should ever be able to tell me what I can hear or watch in my own home even if it is porn. For the record, I do not watch porn, but am realistic and come from a large family where the women talk worse than truck drivers, because they are farm girls. Now I and they know how to act in public/ talk in public and do not need Big Brother, especially ones who think they know what is better for me than I do, to tell me what I can or cannot read, hear or watch.

It took me several hours of wasted time to get this thing off my machine and almost brought it back. I think you need to respect those of us that purchase items that you have no right to peek in my windows and see what i'm hearing or watching. It is quite frankly none of your business. I don't look into your bedroom windows to see what you do nor do I have an interest in doing so. So stop looking into my business will you. Its bad enough people tell us what to eat or drink and where and when people can smoke . We don't live in a communist nation or do we ?
