

I don't know why Hollywood seems to think we need cursing and vulgar remarks and excessive sex in the movies it promotes; I don't know of anyone personally, that cares for it.

If it wasn't for TV Guardian, we would not even watch movies, and TV.

If there was some way that you could provide TV Guardian on the internet as well, we would be watching TV shows and movies via the internet as well.

Is there was some way that you could even have it available for cell phone users? I would feel much more protected.

I feel violated when someone curses at me or even at someone else in the room. I feel the same way when my TV does it. Please do whatever you have to do to make TV Guardian not only available, but required in all products.

Thank you for your consideration,

Gayle Tomlinson
