

good morning, I would have to say that I oppose the tv guardian idea. I dont care for people telling me that I am not able to watch what ever I want, no matter how offensive the dialogue might be. I dont care for christian advocates taking away my privilege to watch any broadcast as it was written. my family doesn't purchase censored media and we don't promote it. I do have 3 children and we still dont agree with the advocates have to say. censorship is getting out of hand. there are to many people in america that are offended way to easy.
