

April 14, 2009

To whom it may concern:

I would very much like to control what is being viewed in my home. I have three children who can be influenced by what they see and it bothers me greatly when a show of good quality is being ruined by either a sex scene, or foul language. I don't want it in my home and I don't want it coming in whether viewed on TV, over the Internet, cable, satellite, DVD Players, Blu-Ray Players, gaming consoles, or other video devices...

I hear you have the capability to download the software needed for this technology and it can be built into the cable/satellite boxes and TVs to work with HD televisions. Why hasn't it been done already? What are you waiting for?

I fear that if things don't get better with this technology than we will be one home without. I know you are thinking it is just one home but it only takes one to make a difference whether good or evil.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Ruby A Stump
a mom, grandmother, friend.