

I want foul language filtering technology on TV, cable, satellite and other devices that show TV and other programs and movies for my family. The software for this technology must be built into the cable/satellite boxes and TVs to work with HD televisions. It is being offered to cable and satellite companies for free. Those that want to use it can pay a small fee for it. These companies have the ability to download the software into most existing cable/satellite boxes. Cable and satellite companies should give parents the option of using these parenting tools. This technology will even increase profits since filtering out language makes more TV shows and movies OK for family viewing. Let the free market work. Let me and everyone else have a choice.
