

The TV networks continue to become more crass. The language used would not be used in polite company. The attempts at sexy ads just seem to increase and complaints to the networks do no good. As the people own the airwaves and not the networks, I am requesting that you pull the license of the worst offender. At this point that seems unclear but you must have a list of complaints about various offensive programs and the language used on the air. Perhaps if NBC, or whichever, were to lose their right to broadcast you might get some attention. Please do it so that the networks will police what they air.
