

I am writing to express my disgust with the recently adopted rules to improve the accountability of broadcasters who use the public airwaves to serve the news and informational needs of their communities.

The new rules are absolutely in contrast with freedom of speech and free-market capitalism.

The people who support this legislation are politically motivated to do nothing other than silence their opposition and assassinate the character and livelihood of those who do a better job of delivering the truth.

Talk radio is very obviously the product of pure market demand. The programming Americans want to listen to flourish while less popular media rightfully goes by the wayside.

Please depose of these new rules and allow the public to choose for themselves what they want to hear.

Thank you.
