

I urge the FCC to NOT continue in its efforts to control what I hear on the radio. The programming currently heard on public airwaves sells advertising for a reason. People like the programming they hear, and then patronize the advertisers. The free market is the ONLY legitimate gauge to reveal what the public desires to hear. How DARE the government SELECTIVELY target radio, the ONLY media venue in which this administration finds widespread opposition. HmMMM I wonder why the FCC is turning to draconian, underhanded, and communistic methods of meddling with free speech. Its not needed, not right, and SPITS on the bill of rights. People on both sides of the political spectrum are starting to see what the FCC is doing, and people WILL vote out their representatives and leaders that aid and condone this kind of action. People WILL act -peacefully and legally- if the programming and voices they count on are taken off the air when radio stations and media companies water down their offerings to avoid any 'trouble' with the FCC and their 'advisory' boards. I would call these boards political censors.
