

The 21st century is going to be one dominated by the Internet. It is, in fact, already a century dominated by this new technology - kids across the globe are growing up with it and using it to its fullest potential. The fact that America, the greatest country on earth, is behind in our internet (behind Europe, Japan, both Koreas, etc...) makes me angry. HOW could we let this happen? Like copper phone wiring, updating our systems is going to be expensive but it is also necessary. PLEASE GET THIS DONE.
