

this is the way to go. cable and satellite are getting to the point where the average person soon will not be able to afford it. there should be an option to just pick the channels you want. Movies, sports, news, etc. instead of bundling everything together and making us pay such a high price.