

Dear Federal Communications Commissioners:

I volunteer as a crisis hotline counselor at CrisisLink, a suicide prevention agency in Arlington, Virginia, and talk to people on every shift who benefit from the stability of 1-800-SUICIDE as administered by SAMHSA and the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline. I have been personally involved in immediate suicide interventions, and as such have experienced directly the valuable and critical resources provided by the SAMHSA/Crisis Link partnership. It should continue; why fix something that ain't broken?

Thank you.

I urge you to permanently reassign 1-800-SUICIDE to SAMHSA.
