

Briefly, since cable has an unfair monopoly on channel offerings, the consumer should be allowed to choose which channels they want. Some channels that are non-profitable will likely suffer and disappear--which they should if no one wants them. They are wasting bandwidth. Please allow a la carte options and competition in the cable market--you already have it with satellite (dish and direct) why not in the cable arena?