(USAC Finding 4)

Audit Finding # 4

Criteria:

"Lifeline provides low-income consumers with discounts of up to $10.00 off the monthly cost of telephone service for a single telephone line in their principal residence."⁴

Condition:

We obtained and examined the Beneficiary and four incumbent's subscriber listings to support the total number of Lifeline and Link Up subscribers noted on the June 2007 Form 497. We utilized computer assisted auditing techniques to identify subscribers claimed by both the wireless and wireline carriers. In North Dakota, we identified 280 name and address matches. In South Dakota, we identified 577 name and address matches. These subscribers were claimed on both the incumbent and competitor's June 2007 Form 497. Only one carrier should have claimed these subscribers.

Cause:

The mechanism in place to prevent a subscriber from obtaining Lifeline discounts on both their wireless and wireline service is ineffective.

Effect:

The Beneficiary received approximately _____ in support for subscribers who also received Lifeline support on their landline. Because we do not know which line (and consequently which carrier) should receive support, we cannot precisely calculate the overpayment of support.

Recommendation:

While we recognize that the Beneficiary's current Lifeline application requires the applicant to certify under penalty of perjury that they or someone else in their household does not already receive Lifeline support, we recommend the Beneficiary reinforce this orally at the time they accept the subscriber's Lifeline application.

In addition, we recommend that USAC management raise the issue of duplicate claims with the FCC for guidance on how to identify which carrier is entitled to the support.

Beneficiary Response:

"Just as the Auditor could not determine which line should be eligible, the landline or the wireless line, Alltel, with access to far less information, has no way to ascertain if the customer has another Lifeline except to ask the customer and rely on their attestation. Alltel does not have access to the incumbent LEC's subscriber information necessary to identify customers that are already receiving Lifeline/Link-Up discounts. Therefore, Alltel must rely on the potential Lifeline/Link-Up customer's certification under the penalty of perjury that he/she does not receive Lifeline/Link-Up discounts from any other service provider. Alltel agrees to further train its sales staff to emphasize to customers the significance of the attestation.”

⁴ In the Matter of Lifeline and Link Up, FCC 04-87, 19 FCC Rcd 8302, 8306, ¶ 4 (2004). See also, 47 C.F.R. §§ 54.401 and .403.

USAC Management Response:

USAC management will contact each incumbent and the Beneficiary and ask the companies to work together to determine which company should properly claim the Lifeline subscribers identified by the auditors as receiving Lifeline support from both companies. If the companies are unwilling or unable to allocate the customers at issue between themselves, USAC will refer this issue to the FCC's Enforcement Bureau to determine whether additional investigation is required to determine which company should have claimed these Lifeline subscribers.

(USAC Finding 11)

Audit Finding #11

Criteria:

“Lifeline defined. As used in this subpart, Lifeline means a retail local service offering:...” 47 C.F.R. §54.401(a) (emphasis added)

Condition:

Our analysis of the Beneficiary's charges reveals that the carrier sets different rates for the same service depending on whether or not the subscriber lives on tribal lands. We noted that the Beneficiary charges $14.99 a month for near reservation Lifeline service and $34.25 for on reservation Lifeline service (before Lifeline credits are applied).

Cause:

It appears that the Beneficiary sets its tribal rates more for their ability to maximize its claim from the Universal Service Fund (USF) than to recover its costs for providing Lifeline service.

Effect:

The monetary effect of this finding is overpayment of support.

Recommendation:

We recommend the Beneficiary claim the appropriate amount of Lifeline support to reduce its standard Basic Universal Service rate to $1 for tribal subscribers. The higher costs of servicing tribal lands, if any, may be recoverable from the High Cost Support Mechanism of the USF.

Beneficiary Response:

“Alltel has two rates plan, one priced at $14.99 prior to the Lifeline discount and the other priced at $34.25 prior to the Lifeline discount. Both these rate plans are identical with one exception which is the local calling area. The local calling area with the $14.99 rate plan is determined at the switch level. The local calling area with $34.25 rate plan includes the calling area that is available with $14.99 rate plan plus toll free calling virtually anywhere in the United States. Both of these plans are available to tribal customers for $1 because of the availability of the Tier IV support on tribal lands. Therefore, a tribal Lifeline customer get a much greater value for the $1 when they choose the plan that includes toll free calling virtually anywhere in the United States. Since the retail rate of this plan is $34.25 and the customer only pays $1, Alltel recovery of $33.25 is appropriate and accurate.”

USAC IAD Response to Beneficiary Response:

The federal Lifeline program is designed to support basic (local) service. In its Lifeline Order,⁹ the FCC chose not to use the universal service program to support interexchange services. The Lifeline program should not support any costs that the Beneficiary incurs in providing toll free calling for its subscribers.

⁹ Federal-State Joint Board on Universal Service, CC Docket 96-45, Report and Order,

USAC Management Response:

USAC concurs with the cause, effect and recommendation. The FCC explicitly defines Lifeline as a discount on basic, local telephone service. Further, in the 2000 Tribal Order, the FCC opted not to include intrastate toll or interstate toll as a service supported by the Universal Service Fund.¹⁰ USAC will recover any overpayments that have occurred as a result of this finding. In addition, the Beneficiary must cease claiming federal Lifeline support for service related to the toll portion of its calling plan.

Dear Mr. Viger,

Currently on the Lake Traverse Reservation, the 911 addressing for all physical addresses is not available. The Tribe is working to compile such a listing for emergency management and other official governmental functions. As an important utility communication service provider, Alltel's work with this kind of information is necessary. This office looks forward to information exchanges related to 911 addressing. The electronic format is a question, reducing the amount of data to keying and input saves both offices time and money.

Continue to contact this office with electronic formats that work for Alltel to coordinate our data input. Call the Planning Department at (605) 698-4972 as needed.
