

No highest speed in many rural areas! Lower levels of high speed are not adequate and not equal access. Very many good reasons why we need this. Highest speed needed for all people, especially all with disabilities to live! Online education, communication and work is so important. For example, no State Agency here is focusing on these needs of deafened and hard of hearing, where real time text communications are so important for us (not sign language, not Deaf Culture). We need real time speech-to-text in many places, online and in situ using modern technologies; we depend on best telecommunications systems (speed, high quality audio for the providers, open to all). What does the FCC do to monitor that each State is actually doing what is needed? Local committees and agencies are status quo, same members for too many years, unable to introduce change needed. Direction from FCC needed.
