

Consumers are given little or no choice of broadband provider for their homes. These few providers will work together to abuse this unfortunate condition at every opportunity, and the internet will suffer.