

Good morning, I am writing to you because of my great concern for the future of the Internet. I believe that net neutrality is a must have for our quickly growing worldwide use of it. Without net neutrality, we will have companies controlling the transmissions of information in a way that almost seems against our constitution. We should not allow large corporations to bully us around, blocking whatever they feel. The Internet that we enjoy today was based off the fact that we have the right to whatever information we wanted as a general public. This has grown our country more, connecting more people across the world, and have made great advances in sharing knowledge. Why should we allow companies now to control everything they want? We pay for service, so we should get the full service. Thank you for your time, I hope you make the right decision. -James
