

Keep your greasy, grubby sausage-like fingers off the Internet. What ever your intentions, whatever delusions of bureaucratic grandeur drive you, you will screw up the greatest freemarket of ideas, products, and information. It is the unchanging nature of government to succumb to the lure, the Fata Morgana of competency.