

This filing is in response to NBP Public Notice #27. As the needs of people with speech disabilities become clearer to all of us, and as we understand more and more, we are morally obligated not just to accept the status quo but to push forward for the latest, most specific, most individual equipment for them to use. Each day we quietly accept money pouring into weapons and soldiers carrying those weapons to places where we have at best uncertain policies. When will we transfer these resources to the here and now and the people with speech disabilities who know what they need and when they need it. I ask you to support as much innovation in the market for video devices as possible and to hear the people who know what they need when they speak. Thank you.
