

Please keep net neutrality alive and well for our citizens.

Huge communications corporations, such as AT&T and Comcast, want to be able to tell Americans what we can access online and what we can't.

Net neutrality is the First Amendment for internet consumers. It is the cornerstone of democracy, free speech, and innovation. We need strong rules to keep the internet free from censorship, blocking and discrimination and to make sure service providers disclose all efforts to manage content.

Keep the internet healthy: stand up for net neutrality!
