

Affordable, unhampered internet access is vital to an informed electorate. Huge communications companies like Comcast, AT&T and Verizon are unscrupulous, opportunistic entities that through vertical and horizontal integration control news and entertainment to the great detriment of society. Strong regulatory oversight has been lacking and the excesses permitted by past administrations need to be rolled back.