

I am writing to ask the FCC to take a strong stand for Net Neutrality. I believe that having an open internet is increasingly necessary in order to encourage innovation and economic growth in the U.S. Although the major providers are trying to scare us into believing that NN threatens progress, the idea that NN discourages investment in networks improvements has been debunked by real market data. Please do not allow corporations to put profit ahead of providing free and open access to all Americans. Stand firm on NN.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Andrea Martens
