

The internet belongs to we the people. The internet was developed primarily thru government funded programs, not corporations. We the people allow the phone and cable companies to use the airwaves to serve us, but not control us. Net neutrality is the only way that we the people will maintain our control over internet content and access. Other forms of media have already been compromised because of corporate monopolization. As good citizens, we need access to all points of view. The internet needs to remain open and accessible and affordable. We need our democracy NOW more than ever!
