

The FCC must protect Net Neutrality by taking bold steps that keep the Internet free from blocking, censorship and discrimination and ensure that Internet service providers disclose all efforts to influence content.