

How much more proof do we need that giant business is the antithesis of innovation? If the telecom industry pulls off this "teleconjob," the next line of hoo-ha they will feed us is that they are "too big to fail." Kick them to the curb. Keep the Internet neutral.