

* An open Internet gives me freedom of expression - freedom to write and share my views and the freedom to find alternative viewpoints; * I want other, smarter people to come up with the next Google, the next YouTube, the next Web application that I can't even imagine;

* I want to read about people and cultures that are different from me;

* Mainstream media make me scream expletives, and I use the Internet to find alternative sources of news and information;

* Net Neutrality means I don't need anyone's permission to create my own videos, and media execs aren't determining what's funny - we are;

* Some day, I just might start my own business;

* An open Internet feeds the activist in me, allowing me to engage with my community and organize for social change online;

* I'd rather shop online, only I still want to support a local business;

* I wanted to learn how to swing dance , and found a video online that taught me how to do it; and,

* I don't want to be censored.
