

The ISP providers and gateway keepers have enough influence over us with advertisements, promotions, commercials and filtering that we dont need them to have even more control on what we can and cannot do on the internet.

Net Neutrality is the engine of innovation, free speech and democracy on the Internet. We are also paying them to provide content in an unlimited fashion, not a metered, filtered, dumbed-down medium that is so sterile that it lacks any potential substance whatsoever.

May the FCC fight for freedom in the battle against corporate greed and control in the most accessible medium ever created.
