

"Those who would be willing to permanently give up freedom for only temporary safety, deserve neither freedom nor safety."----Benjamin Franklin.

I'd rather die in a supposed "cybernet security" crisis than spend the rest of my life living in a prison setting. Seriously, if there is a cyber-security crisis, then why is it the U.S. Government hasn't used the internet to cause energy black-outs in foreign countries? That would be a very affective tool, wouldn't it? And the next time you go on a website, have you ever tried blacking out a city from that website?

Of course you haven't! You wouldn't be able to even if you wanted to.

This whole scare is unrealistic and absotutely ridiculous.

Maybe the U.S. Government will black-out it's own country so we will censor the internet.

Jesus, those crazy 9/11 truthers are right!

DO NOT CENSOR THE INTERNET!!!

Our constitution is already on the process of being destroyed! Don't further it!!!
