

Blocking, censorship and discrimination are anathema to the internet that we all know and use daily, and the FCC must enforce a strong Net Neutrality rule. In the absence of such a rule, AT&T, Comcast, and Verizon will only "enhance shareholder value" in draconian fashion, and at the expense of ordinary Americans -- to expect otherwise is naive.