

I disagree with any policy that restricts my access to the content of my choice on the internet, especially when it is coming from Wall Street. I rely on the internet for alternative perspectives and views that the mainstream media skews or outright omits. In this day and age, and in this "democratic" society (I hope) it is imperative that people have access to the free flow of information so they can make informed decisions, especially during political elections and when spending their hard earned money. Thanks for your consideration.

More than a million Americans have called on Washington to protect Net Neutrality – the rule that lets me control my Internet experience.

It's now time for the FCC to respond and enact strong rules to keep the Internet free from blocking, censorship and discrimination.

This is an issue with real consequences for real people. Don't give in to pressure from AT&T, Comcast, Verizon and their lobbyists. Stand with me and other Americans in support of a strong Net Neutrality rule.
