

More than a million Americans have called on Washington to protect Net Neutrality – the rule that lets me control my Internet experience.

It's now time for the FCC to respond and enact strong rules to keep the Internet free from blocking, censorship and discrimination.

This is an issue with real consequences for real people. Don't give in to pressure from AT&T, Comcast, Verizon and their lobbyists. Stand with me and other Americans in support of a strong Net Neutrality rule.

• An open Internet gives us all freedom of expression - freedom to write and share views and the freedom to find alternative viewpoints;

• Open forum gives smart people the ability to come up with the next generation of internet applications;

• Mainstream media is useless and their views are purchased. I use the Internet to find alternative sources of news and information;

• I want to e-mail who I want, when I want, what I want;

• Net Neutrality means I don't need anyone's permission to create my own videos, and media execs aren't determining what's funny - we are;

• An open Internet feeds the activist in me, allowing me to engage with my community and organize for social change online;

• It's winter and I'd rather shop online, only I still want to support a local business;

• I can find advice and videos to teach me how to do anything I need help with; and,

• I don't want to be censored.
