

Signal boosters help keep my customers happy with their cell service. No cell network covers, or can cover, every possible location, especially in the rugged terrain of colorado. There is a public need for cell phone signal boosters, and restricting them will hurt the public.

Also, cell phone signal boosters can be engineered and built to high standards of quality, as Wilson boosters are, so they won't cause problems for cellular networks.