

The internet is now a fundamental part of American life, and more than just an entertainment medium like television, it will play an even greater essential part of our lives in the future. Thus policy now will shape whether our future is one of true freedom and democracy or one of control of all aspects of life by the rich and powerful.

More than a million Americans have called on Washington to protect Net Neutrality – the rule that lets me control my Internet experience.

It's now time for the FCC to respond and enact strong rules to keep the Internet free from blocking, censorship and discrimination.

This is an issue with real consequences for real people. Don't give in to pressure from AT&T, Comcast, Verizon and their lobbyists. Stand with me and other Americans in support of a strong Net Neutrality rule.
