

Net Neutrality is an opportunity- to ensure the continued flow of information to people REGARDLESS of their social or economic backgrounds. This is a great thing. For the first time in history, nearly the whole of recorded information is available to everyone (with access to a computer).

Net neutrality ensures that all people will continue to have access to the myriad ideas and images that can be found online. We stand to gain far more (as a culture) by perpetuating this free flow of information than by privatizing it's content.
