

There is already enough government/corporate control of the media. Censoring or putting restrictions on what kind of content we can see and produce on, essentially, the only free forum of expression left in a country who claims freedom for all would not only tick a lot of the people you claim to represent off, but in my opinion it would be utterly unconstitutional. I sincerely hope the right decisions on this matter will be made so I don't lose what little faith I still have in my elected "representatives."
