

I am not in favor of this proposal in its present form for the following reasons:

1. "in-laws" should be permitted to have the call of a deceased in law.
2. Extending the waiting period to 2 years and 30 days only encourages and promotes those entities that charge a fee for processing those applications, to make an extra profit at the expense of those unable to pay their fees. The government shouldn't be in the business of determining who makes additional revenue because of their policy decisions. This seems against the best interest of the public.

Thank you, Lee Armitage W7RP
