

I think that my town has a fairly good local news system. Many people are given a wide variety of forums in which they can express their opinion. I also think that for the most part most local news stations try to be as objective as possible.