

Before the FCC decided to pursue Net Neutrality protections, Fox News Channel's Glenn Beck warned his audience that the government was "trying to take over the media." Beck later said that Net Neutrality would "wildly affect your life and free speech" by forcing a "Marxist utopia" on the Internet.

I am sick and tired of the unthinkable atrocities committed by the telecoms against both their employees and their customers. They must be carefully regulated in the public interest. To me that means:

- no spying or throttling except in extreme cases that are defined by FCC rules written in the public interest
- no tiered services
- no freedom to decide what is "illegal"

Let's face it: Any corporation who stuffs a hearing with disinterested parties is not interested in serving the public and must be strictly regulated.
