

I don't see how licensing wireless microphones will work. Consumers won't do it in my opinion. I remember when everyone had CB radios and were supposed to register them. That never happened. I remember when people were supposed to register their marine radios and that never happened and the government finally stopped that as it did not work. Wireless microphones are an integral part of our culture from sports, schools, and entertainment. A dedicated space should be left for this RF space for this use only.
