

I am totally against any merger of Comcast and NBC -- this can only be a big negative for consumers with less competition and more consolidation. We already have too much consolidation in the media -- we need more independent and diverse voices in the media and not just the big major corporate agendas. I would also like to see more competition for cable operators so prices would come down.